CONSOLIDATION

The Anti's Have Their Innings Meetings at Tropico and Casa Verdugo

Logan's hall was well filled Thursday evening of last week, the meeting being the second one held by the newly organized league. Of course, the subject for discussion was that of Consolidation. Mr. F. E. Davis presided. Mr. James Rich started the ball rolling by making one of the best speeches that has been delivered during the campaign. Mr. Rich stated all of the propositions fairly and said that he was open for conviction as to which of them is the most desirable. He credited Glendale with having "incubated" certain things desirable. He does not fear an increase of taxes, because they indicate benefits received. Mr. Carmack followed in a long reply to an article in the GLENDALE NEWS. Strangely enough, Mr. Carmack did not seem to be converted to the ideas advanced in that progressive journal and endeavored to controvert them, quite satisfactorily to himself and friends. He seemed to favor absorption by Los Angeles and was enamored of that city by its lower charges for water, electricity, gas and public utilities generally. For the present, however, he did not favor anything being done. Mr. A. M. Watson punctured some of Mr. Carmack's best arguments in his cold-blooded statistical way, showing that there is no intention to interfere with the highway commission's Good Roads plans for this section and that owing to certain conditions, Tropico could hope for nothing better in the way of electric light service under present conditions nor as an independent municipality. Mr. Fram spoke advocating that the people do something, he believed that the people of the community if brought together could be trusted to do the thing that is best for themselves, but the first thing is to get together. Mr. Rittenhouse advocated going into Los Angeles just as soon as possible. Mr. Watson said that Mayor Alexander told him a short time ago that there is no chance for Tropico to get into that city at present. On the other hand the president said that he had a letter from the same gentleman advising that Tropico take the matter up with the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. Adjourned to meet Sept. 22.

DOES NOT WANT TO COME IN.

Editor GLENDALE NEWS:

Any one keeping up with events in this section "can read the handwriting on the wall" and knows the time is very short for this valley to remain outside the city of Los Angeles. Everything points to this being done not later than four years and possibly two. Then why should we of Tropico vote ourselves into the city of Glendale when it means increased taxation for things we will receive no benefit for. The only benefit we will derive will be lights, for which we will be forced to issue bonds for $100,000 to get, and better streets which the property owners will pay for. So to get these two things we will be taxed by the city of Glendale to buy and maintain a public park, public library, elegant public buildings and an expensive city government and many other things that go to satisfy the people of the "Jewel City of the Valley."

So I maintain that outside of lights and street improvements, Tropico will not be getting value received. These things we can get without being annexed to Glendale at much less cost and possibly better. Just about the time all these expensive public improvements were well under way we will be taken into Los Angeles, and as far as Tropico is concerned will have no use for them. Yet we will be taxed for years to come to pay for them.

Oh, but you say, can't 4000 people on the outside trust 3000 on the inside. Now this sounds nice and may deceive some. But it does not change the situation one bit, as the 4000 people on the outside are divided with a majority so located that they will favor the present city of Glendale. You will notice in last week's NEWS a report of the school districts, and Glendale and West Glendale have three times the number of school children that Tropico has. So I presume the voting strength will be the same. Tropico will be in a helpless minority and with a city council of five, Tropico having only one, we will only get the crumbs that fall from the tray.

Tropico is a business center, occupying the best location outside of Los Angeles city for a small commercial city. We have the tile works, basket factory, paint factory, piano factory soon to be erected, and others in sight. So you will see we are differently situated than the residential city of Glendale, and I believe until we all go into Los Angeles are better able to govern ourselves through a city government of our own.

FRANK H. DAVIS.

REPLY TO MR. McNUTT.

To the Editor of The News:

At last one unanswerable argument has been presented in favor of annexing the district lying east of the present city limits. It will give us McNutt—Mr. P. S. McNutt. Mr. P. S. McNutt lives out east, somewhere between Eagle Rock and Glendale. Residentially, McNutt is a maverick. Let us rope and brand him with the Glendale brand before Eagle Rock gets him. I do not know what P. S. stands for, but from the vast store of wisdom arrogated to himself by P. S. McNutt, he must be the last reincarnation of Solomon, the wise man of biblical times. Undoubtedly his name is P. Solomon McNutt. And he is an up-to-date Solomon, for he knows the meaning of that obscure English word "washy." He intimates that he learned it by aid of a dictionary.

But the great trouble with P. Solomon McNutt is that he labors under two disadvantages. One is that he is contending against the incontrovertible logic of facts. The other is that he is so unfortunate as to belong to that large class of people who think they think. This gets him into trouble, for he does not see where his alleged "thinks" are leading him.

For instance, he says:

"The article advises Tropico and the outside districts to incorporate, and if they can show ability enough to run their own business, Glendale may then trust them to help run hers. That is the same argument the Southern states used when they tried to break up the Union, but it is too old now to sound well. It never did convince anybody in the North or West."

There is where P. Solomon butts against a fact, and misstates it to help out his cause. If he had been old enough at that time to remember now the causes of the war, he would know that the Southern states tried to break up the Union because they were not allowed to dictate to new states coming into the Union and to force slavery upon them against the wishes of the citizens of the new states.

Mr. McNutt says again:

"These 'Property Owners of Glendale' would first fix the business centers and locate and put in all needed civic improvements, and afterward annex this outside part. It would cost $25,000 to build a decent library building, $30,000 to build a city hall and equip a suitable fire apparatus, $50,000 for even an ordinary park, and no telling what amount for sewer facilities. These things must be had, and Glendale can scarcely ever have them out of her present small size. If bonds were voted for these things, the territory you would annex later would not be required to pay anything for them. It would be unfair and unwise to do it that way."

There is where P. Solomon not only runs foul of a fact, but shows that he has not learned to think far eough to know where he is going to end.

Assuming that his figures for the cost of library and city hall are correct, and it is a fair estimate, Glendale will save more than the cost of both by refusing to consolidate. As soon as the consolidation is effected, the annexed districts will insist, and very properly, on the extension of the electric light and power system to those sections. A new school will be needed in Tropico and in West Glendale. Tropico needs it badly now. To pay for those improvements, bonds to the amount of at least $100,000 will have to be issued. Glendale, with an assessed valuation of property of $1,936,446 as against a total of $1,769,397 for Tropico and West Glendale, will have to pay for 59 per cent of those bonds. By refusing to consolidate, Glendale will save over $4,000 in cash, and will own and control both buildings. She would get no benefit from the extension of the electric system or the building of either of the schools.

Mr. McNutt asks if the electric lights pay on Glendale avenue, would they be run at a loss on Central avenue? The answer is: Yes. For there are not enough customers on Central avenue to pay for maintaining poles and wires. He asks if the current would be lost entirely if it went wandering up Sycamore canyon. Again the answer is, Yes, if it had to locate P. Solomon, and had to depend on his patronage to make that branch a paying portion of the system.

As to the park and sewers. First, will Mr. McNutt tell from his great store of wisdom where he would locate the outfall of any system of sewers? The people of Los Angeles and the country lying along the course of the river to the sea would never allow the garbage of eight or ten thousand people to be dumped into the Los Angeles river.

Glendale will probably have to do as other modern cities are doing—compel each property owner to put in a private system of antiseptic cesspools, and each household to care for its own refuse.

As to a park, such a thing is necessary in large, densely populated cities, where long rows of brick and mortar abutting on the sidewalks, with no backyards, compel the children to make a playground of streets crowded with traffic. But in a place like Glendale, where each home has its ample grounds, where the children have plenty of room for play, where sunlight and God's pure air can reach every room in the house, no such necessity exists. For larger playgrounds, where the children and young men and women can assemble and indulge in the games and athletic contests so dear to them, the fine grounds of the splendid schools are available.

For picnics and other gatherings, Verdugo Park, right at our door, is at their disposal. It is nearer the people than the parks and recreation grounds of the residents in more thickly populated centers.

But where P. Solomon's failure to think properly and thost stubborn facts again get him in trouble is where he says in his attempted reply to "Property Owners":

"The article is a libel upon the people of West Glendale, and Tropico. They are not obstructionists, as said. West Glendale was wholly a farm and orchard district at the time Glendale was incorporated. Tropico was thinly settled, and never voted upon the proposition. Besides, at that time Glendale was not such a good looking proposition as would attract a progressive district like Tropico was."

In the same paragraph he denies a statement and furnishes the proof to refute his own denial. He had not thought far enough ahead to see where he was going. He says the article is a libel on the people of Tropico and West Glendale, in that it says they are not up to date, that they are obstructionists, and not progressive.

Then he informs his readers that these long-headed, far-sighted, up-to-date, ninety-horsepower, progressive men could see nothing in poor, little, old Glendale, as they called it at that time, to make these astute people wish to join it in creating a modern, progressive, up-to-date city.

Those steam engines of progress sat with folded hands, indolent and incompetent, while poor, measly Glendale passed them in the race. It was not until some of the newcomers in those districts woke them up that they realized that Glendale had nearly twenty-seven miles of asphalted streets all paid for except about $20,000, electric lights, fire plugs, a cross-town trolley line, a public library, and a large and growing city. Then they began to sit up and take notice. Then they realized that they had nothing but their schools, which do them credit, except some dirt roads, ankle deep in dust in dry weather and knee deep in mud when it rains.

But Mr. McNutt applies as an argument only to the eastern district.

As a resident of Glendale, I attended the picnic at Verdugo Park on Labor Day, hoping and expecting to hear from the speakers some of the reasons why Glendale should at least be willing to consolidate with Tropico and West Glendale, to form a city of the fifth class.

I have not been in favor of consolidation. I am from Missouri on this matter, however. I am willing to be shown. But, so far, no one has been able or willing to advance any argument that to me seems weighty enough to cause me to change my opinion.

The speaking on Labor Day was a great disappointment to me. Mr. Usilton, president of the Valley Improvement Association, and Mr. Clotworthy, a member of that association and an ardent advocate of consolidation, spoke, but they failed to present any facts or arguments to show that Glendale would benefit in the slightest degree by consolidation.

They spent their time and breath scolding about a communication in The News of September 2, opposing consolidation. They each of them read it by sections and paragraphs, shook their heads over it, and denied the force of the arguments presented in the article. But they failed to say anything to prove the contrary.

Their reading of the article was productive of one good. They presented the facts contained in it to the attention of many who had not seen it, and probably never would have seem it otherwise.

Mr. Clotworthy did say that the subject of moving the city hall and public library down to the lower end of the town had never been mentioned "at any of their meetings." That was as near as he dared to go in a denial of the fact that such a thing was contemplated. Of course it has not been spoken of in the meetings. That would give away the game.

The thing leaked out through the incautious utterances of some of their followers with more zeal than wisdom.

Dr. Phillips, of Hollywood, gave an interesting talk on bugs. He told some things about the habits of wasps and bees. He does not like wasps. He does not appear to think they are desirable neighbors nor calculated to make home happy. Bees he aprpoves of. Their industry, frugality and long-sightedness in storing up honey for future use he specially commended. He advised the people to be bees, and not to be wasps. What it all had to do with consolidation he failed to point out. It was a nice little homily in favor of general goodness, which might have been delivered before a Sunday school with good results.

Then he told how, like Moses of old, he had, many years ago, stood on a high mountain and looked down upon the beautiful San Fernando Valley. He also told how that morning, as he came out on the cars, his love of nature caused him to look with rapture on the great mountains, whose hoary heads seemed to pierce the blue empyream.

It was a pretty word picture, but he failed to demonstrate what it all had to do with consolidation. He did not tell us how consolidation would make the naughty little wasps any better, or the good little bees any gooder.

Nor did he say anything to lead one to think that if Glendale, Tropico and the rest of the Valley failed to consolidate, the wasps would sting more fiercely, the bees stop gathering honey, or the granite hills cease to lift up their everlasting heads into the blue skies of sun-kissed Southern California.

For the above map we are indebted to the EVENING EXPRESS. Since it was prepared a final change has been made in the northern boundary. Instead of taking in all of the Thom and Ross property, the line adopted by the committee last Saturday evening in a conference with Mr. Pembroke Thom strikes eastward from about Ethel [illegible] south and east of Casa Verdugo along the north line of the "wash" to a point 100 feet west of Glendale avenue, from thence it follows the course of Glendale avenue keeping 100 feet westerly until its junction with Verdugo road is reached. It then strikes southerly one hundred feet east of Verdugo road to near the present city boundary at Woodberry's hill; thence easterly along the ridge to take in the Sycamore Canyon section. The eastern proposed boundary is practically the top of the ridge between Glendale and Eagle Rock. The southern line crosses the Verdugo road half a mile south of the present boundary following the line of Watts subdivision to the Forest Lawn cemetery, cutting through that property to the S. P. railroad track, which is the boundary of the city of Los Angeles, following the railroad track to Fourth street as shown on the map.

The change in proposed lines necessitates the starting of a new petition, but securing the required number of signatures will require only a day or two. The election will probably not occur until about December 1. Contrary to a prevalent belief in some quarters, the county supervisors have nothing to do with the proposed election. Petitions will be presented to the trustees of the city who are required to call an election upon petition of one-fifth of the voters of the present city.

Large Increase in Enrollment—Starting in for a Prosperous Year

High School.

School opened Monday morning, Sept. 14, on schedule time. The auditorium was noticeably more crowded than it was last year at the close of school.

The enrollment on the first day was two hundred and fifteen against one hundred and sixty-five on the first day last year.

The freshman class is the largest ever enrolled, containing ninety-one members.

Miss Hawks, Miss Warner and Mr. Taylor have joined the ranks of the faculty.

Miss Knepper and Miss Warner have made their headquarters at Hotel Glendale.

Miss Lucile and Miss Ruth Spaulding who attended G. U. H. S. last year and who enrolled this year, left Tuesday to attend Hollywood high school. Ralph Bourne is in this year's senior class. Bourne will undoubtedly be missed from the athletic field.

Fourth Street Grammar School.

The enrollment on the first day comprised two hundred and thirty pupils.

Miss Irene Ward has taken Miss Hendershott's position.

The primary department is very crowded, containing fifty-four pupils. The first, second, fifth and sixth grades are the most crowded.

Miss Paul is staying at Wood's hotel on the boulevard.

Sixth Avenue Grammar School.

The first day enrollment averaged 232.

Miss Lamson, Miss Noggle and Miss Hollinsworth are teaching here for the first time.

Miss Lamson, Miss Hatch and Miss Waite, principal, are staying at Hotel Glendale.

The primary department enrolled 52 members.

AT HIGH NOON.

At high noon Wednesday, Sept. 14, Laura Pirtle and Ernest Owen were united in holy matrimony by the Rev. Howell of Trinity Methodist church in Los Angeles.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents and was attended only by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The wedding party entered the room and took their position under an immense bell of ferns and white carnations where the ceremony was performed. Miss Lelia Butler played the wedding march and soft strains of music accompanied the service.

The bride was simply gowned in dainty white and was attended by her little niece, Shirley Chase and little Aline Brininstool, the niece of the groom, both in fluffy white frocks carrying armsful of white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen will spend the remainder of the month visiting the various mountain resorts, after which they will return to Glendale where they will be at home to their friends at their residence on the corner of Durand and Maryland avenue.

BASEBALL NEWS.

On Saturday the Verdugos met and were defeated by the Union Hardware men of Los Angeles, the score standing 4-5 in the latter's favor. Excitement reigned supreme as the game was very close and belonged to anybody up to the last half of the ninth inning.

However, as it was not a league game Verdugo's record stands unimpeached as far as the league is concerned.

On Sunday the Verdugos returned to their own when they played the Mavericks who carried home a thick coat of whitewash, as the score was 12-0 in Verdugo's favor. (That sounds more like it, Verdugo.) The excellence of the score is chiefly owing to the splendid playing of Jervis as pitcher and Buttrick as catcher. Jervis played a no-hit game and struck out twenty-one men.

Line-up: Jervis, pitcher; Buttrick, catcher; Roberts, 1b; Benson, 2b; Flores, ss; Abe, 3b; Barkdall, rf; Easton, cf; Hilliard, lf.

PUBLIC SALE.

One of the best corners in Glendale will be sold at public sale to the highest bidder on Saturday, Sept. 24, 10 a. m., southeast corner of Brand Blvd. and Sixth street. The lot is 86x150 ft., the 150 ft. facing Brand Blvd., and is improved with 50 feet storeroom and living rooms, the location and surroundings add valuation to this property, which is only a short block from high and grammar schools. Sixth street is one of the longest streets in Glendale and connects with the county boulevard; also a car line is contemplated on Sixth street to connect Pasadena, Glendale and Hollywood to Santa Monica; all of which will make Brand and Sixth street one of our lively corners.

Mr. Roman, the present owner of the corner is closing out all his interests and will engage in manufacturing of pine needle fiber, which will be used in mattresses, pillows and cushions. The pine needle fiber is one of the greatest inventions of the present day, as for many years hundreds of men in this country and Europe have spent thousands of dollars in the same direction and have failed to produce the goods. But the gentleman whom Mr. Roman is interested with has the pine needle fiber in the finest of form which cannot be improved upon, as his samples speak for themselves and without doubt is one of the greatest inventions of the present generation, not only from a sanitary standpoint, but people that are afflicted with rheumatism, asthma and many other complaints will be relieved at once by using mattresses or pillows made of pine needle fiber, while at the same time the room will be purified of all germs.

GLENDALE, CAL., SEPTEMBER 16, 1910

South Pasadena has a "Woman's Improvement Association." Whether its object is the improvement of women, or it is a combination of woman improvers, we are not informed.

And Maine has gone Democratic. Surprising that it did not do so long ago when one takes into consideration the number of "progressive" Republicans who have left there for California!

When a man talks about progressiveness and then works against every effort to keep his town abreast of the times, his neighbors are of the opinion that he does not measure up to his own standards.—Fernando Press.

The positive refusal of Mrs. Lillian S. Wells to serve any longer on the library board is a matter for regret. Mrs. Wells has been associated with the work from its beginning and has performed her duties in that position with rare ability and enthusiasm.

Special trains and all the paraphernalia of a "round the circle" tour, cost money, as everybody knows, but it jolts the most enthusiastic Rooseveltian to learn that the colonel's traveling expenses are all paid by the magazine of which he is contributing editor.

The county of Los Angeles receives the sum of $247,000 from the estate of the late E. J. Baldwin as "Inheritance Tax." The total valuation of the estate is $11,478,311.46. Of this sum $5,936,304 goes to his daughter, Clara Baldwin Stoecker, the inheritance tax on that amount alone being $115,924.13. The widow receives $146,666.66, and the Baldwin Annex property in San Francisco.

Burbank citizens are in receipt of a communication from Mr. H. E. Huntington accepting their proposition to put up a bonus of $40,000 and provide a right of way for an electric railway connecting with the Glendale line near Casa Verdugo. It is figured out that an assessment of from ten to forty dollars an acre on the property immediately benefited, will suffice to secure the necessary sum. The probability is that our neighbors will not get the road any cheaper and it is a safe assertion that the dollars they contribute will be returned four-fold in increased values for realty.

The action of the Consolidated Water Company in attempting to compel all of their patrons in Glendale to make payment in Los Angeles of their monthly bills, has stirred up a good deal of just indignation among the water users under that company's system. The city clerk under instruction of the city attorney has sent word to the company informing them that if the rule is insisted upon, the city will at once take steps to regulate water rates to be charged by the company. The probability is that the company will recede from the stand it has taken, as it seems to be supported neither by law nor justice.

Some individual with a talent which by comparison makes Munchausen and Ananias paragons of veracity, in his desire to defend the Pacific Electric in its action by which Brand boulevard is ornamented with wire fences along the right of way, has made the assertion that when the railroad was built, it was "held up" by the people of Glendale in various instances for right of way, etc." The idea of the people of Glendale now or at any other time holding up the Pacific Electric is so funny as to be pathetic. Poor Mr. Huntington, meek and lowly Mr. McMillan, how sad that your lines have fallen in such a piratical neighborhood.

Poor old "Uncle Walt Mason" of Emporia! No more will readers be delighted with his melodious output of jingling words full of the spirit of cheer! Just now we read these words from his facile pen, "But things keep a-coming to folks who are humming and this is a bully old world." And in the telegraphic news of the day is told the story of his tragic end by his own hand, driven to the sad act by the pangs of an unendurable disease!

Surely of his last dreadful act, mindful of the cheerful uplift of his song, it may be said in the classic words of Sterne "The ministering spirit blushed as he gave it in and the recording angel dropped a tear upon the word and blotted it out forever."

THE SCHOOLS.

The Los Angeles city special school tax this year is 46 cents on the hundred dollars valuation as against 18 cents last year, and the supervisors have issued an order for the school authorities to explain. The explanation is no doubt found in the fact that a large number of new schools have been established in what has heretofore been sparsely settled districts, but which have become populous within the last year or two. It takes a long time for the people who are comparatively new to Southern California to get into their minds the fact that school houses cannot be too large nor too numerous to accommodate the ever increasing demand upon them. In Glendale a five-room school house erected two years ago is filled to overflowing already and another school building will have to be provided before another school year opens. The cost of our schools is the chief item in the sum of the taxes paid by the people, but certainly no other institution exceeds it in importance. If parents desire to evade the duty of training their children in the knowledge to be found in books and in manners and morals as well, they should certainly be willing to pay very liberally for the service. There is however a tendency in the scheme of public education to make the system more and more complex by the addition from time to time of elaborations and additions to the curriculum, which while always increasing the expense, are not as invariably beneficial. It is a great subject, however, and one which we shall always have with us, and its intricate problems are not to be solved at sight by either expert or laymen. One thing, however, is very desirable, and that is that parents and citizens generally should take an active interest in educational affairs. The parent teachers associations should be encouraged in continuing their labors along the lines that have been laid out, for their promise of usefulness is great.

TWO MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE—ARGUMENTS.

For years Glendale business men have been direct losers by the fact that Glendale avenue above First street to its junction with Verdugo road, has been practically only a strip of sand and no one seemed to have any authority or power to improve it. Travel and trade from Crescenta and Canyada has persistently been diverted down Verdugo road to Los Angeles instead of coming to Glendale. It is expected that the contract for the improvement of the Verdugo Canyon road from the north to the Glendale city line will be let by the county in a short time. If the upper end of Glendale avenue is not improved, the bulk of the greatly increased travel down through the canyon will continue down Verdugo road avoiding the business center of Glendale. The annexation by Glendale of the additional property proposed to be taken in on the north will assure the widening and improvement of this highway.

Another great advantage to be gained by this whole section should the additional territory on the north be taken in, will be the authority gained by the city to control the Verdugo Canyon storm water, the bed of that sometimes dangerous stream from Verdugo road westward being included in the proposed territory to be annexed. The tenderfoot in our midst cannot easily be convinced that this storm water can ever be a serious menace to Glendale and Tropico. But the Verdugo canyon stream, like scores of others in Southern California, has in it possibilities of great danger, scarcely to life but surely to property. Many improvements have been made in sections where in times of flood in past years an irresistible stream has flowed, and it is rash foolishness to doubt the possibility of damage that may ocur any winter. No expensive work is required to keep these dangerous flood waters within bounds, the essential part being to have the municipality given jurisdiction so that it can do the right thing at the right time.

Out of this statement of facts we believe our friends within the municipality who oppose the Greater Glendale idea, can construct for themselves by slight mental effort, one of those long lost arguments which they claim never to have seen, indicating at least one reason why the proposal to enlarge our city should receive their support.

Mr. Triol has been looking over property near Los Angeles for the past three months, and has chosen Glendale in preference to all other suburban towns. A CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

At a meeting with the city trustees Monday evening, the library trustees brought before the board the proposition for a Carnegie library. Mr. Carnegie's requirements are principally two in number, one being that the city shall furnish the lot, the other that the city shall spend on the library every year at least one-tenth of the sum of his contribution. Mrs. Wells of the library board said that as the probability is that the library will cost for the coming year at least $1500, it seems proper that an application be made for the sum of $15,000 for a building. She thought there were any number of lots available and desired that the application be made at once. The city attorney informed her, however, that the first requisite would be the obtaining of at least an option upon a certain lot for a specified time and amount before the matter could be further proceeded with. The matter was turned over to the president of the board of trustees who will appoint a committee of citizens to look the matter up.

ORDINANCE NO. 131.

SECTION 6. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this Ordinance, and shall cause the same to be published once in the GLENDALE NEWS, and thereupon and thereafter it shall take effect and be in full force.

The Glendale News

GLENDALE, CAL., SEPTEMBER 16, 1910

A correspondent of the Alhambra Advocate has the following to say about the borough system and pre-election promises, of interest to us here at present:

Borough System.

In a communication to the Alhambran Advocate an "Observing Citizen" treats of one phase of the annexation question as follows:

"Considerable discussion of the borough system (so-called) is heard. The laws of California provide for no such system. A smaller city joining a larger one is absorbed. The charter of Los Angeles city provides that any municipality adjoining it may, after having given up its identity, call an election and erect itself into a borough and that this borough when so constituted shall have all the powers of a sixth class city, except such as are reserved to the larger city. In other words, the borough system under that provision would secure to its inhabitants less privileges than are now enjoyed by sixth class cities and would entail endless confusion in conflicts of authority over streets and public utilities. Considerable stress is laid also upon negotiations that may be conducted by the various cities prior to their amalgamation. There is no committee, board or body of men authorized by law, to make any binding or valid promises. If made, they may be kept or disregarded at pleasure. Any one at all familiar with the proceedings attending the consolidation with Los Angeles of the various cities which have been taken in knows that considerable dissatisfaction exists among the former inhabitants of San Pedro, Wilmington and Hollywood, and that resolutions of boards of trade and other public bodies are being constantly presented to the City Council of Los Angeles requesting them to comply with ante-election promises."

HEALTH BULLETIN DISCUSSES VACCINATION.

California vaccination problems are discussed at length in the State Health Bulletin of August.

In an article entitled "Vaccination: Pro and Con," Dr. Raymond Russ, of San Francisco, states that vaccination has been an trial, for 114 years, and has fully demonstrated its efficiency. In describing the ravages of smallpox prior to the introduction of vaccination, several historical epidemics are referred to, among these one in Iceland, in 1707, which destroyed 18,000 people out of a total population of 50,000. The mortality statistics of Sweden are cited as authority for the statement that for twenty-eight years before the introduction of vaccination in that country the average normal death rate from smallpox was 2,050 to each million of population. In the forty years following the introduction of vaccination the death rate from smallpox dropped to nity-eight to each million of population. To uphold the assertion that this rapid decrease of mortality was due to vaccination, and not to improved sanitation, as is held by some who are opposed to vaccination, it is pointed out that the spread of other contagious diseases much akin in their dissemination to smallpox, as measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever, remained unchecked through the period cited and on up to the present time.

Among the statements made by anti-vaccination societies which the Bulletin takes up is that vaccination does not afford protection from smallpox. Authorities are then citeu who state that attendans, nurses and physicians who attend smallpox patients receive absolute immunity if successfully vaccinated, and revaccinated, and that this occurs in the face of the fact that ninety-five unvaccinated persons out of one hundred contract smallpox if subjected to an ordinary exposure.

WESTERN PACIFIC COMPLETED TO ITS TERMINAL AT OAKLAND.

The completion of the Western Pacific railway from Salt Lake City to its Pacific coast terminal at Oakland, Cal., and the inauguration of passenger service is an event of national importance, as affecting the transportation interests of the country. This piece of road, 923 miles in length, is practically an extension of the Gould system westward, and means that a new factor has entered the field in the distribution of transcontinental traffic. The Western Pacific connects with the Denver and Rio Grande railroad at Salt Lake, so that the Gould lines are now continuous from Pittsburg and Detroit to the Pacific Coast, and with these connections are able to supply through freight and passenger service from the Atlantic, the Gulf and the Great Lakes, to the terminal city of Oakland, located on the continental side of the Bay of San Francisco, from which ocean lines will take traffic to all points on the Pacific Coast and to the Orient.

Played Them Both Ways.

The French comedian Perlet was extraordinarily thin. A physician recommended him to try some bath in the Pyrenees, so he betook himself to the mineral springs, where he bathed unremittingly, but all in vain; he did not increase in size. "Patience," urged the doctor. "There is nothing like our baths for making people fat." One day while Perlet was waiting philosophically in his bath for an embonpoint which never came he heard a conversation in the next room, from which his own was divided by only a thin partition and which was occupied by an enormous woman, fat as the Hottentot Venus. "Doctor," said she, "I am getting tired of this." "Why?" asked the Aesculapius. "I have been here two months." "Well?" "Well, I am as enormous as I was when I came." "A little patience, madame," urged the doctor. "There is nothing like our baths for making people thin." Perlet, hearing these words, sprang out of his bath, dressed, rushed home to his hotel, ordered his bill and left for Paris by the next train.—Argonaut.

A Simple Life.

"And what," inquired the visitor, who was "being nice" to little Bobbie, "are you going to do when you grow up?"

"Be a business man," responded Robert, "like father. He took me down to his office last week, and I'm going to work like him and have a good time."

"And what are you going to do in business?" pursued the visitor.

"Going to do just like dad," repeated the youngster—"catch the train every morning and when I get to the office light a big cigar and sit down at my desk and say there's so much work to do it's no use beginning till after lunch, and then go out with another big man and eat and eat till I can't eat any more, and then go back to business and ask everybody else why the work ain't done, and then get so mad because nobody does anything that I'll go home early and be so tired I can't do a thing except read the paper and smoke more big cigars and swear."—Pearson's.

Florists' Jargon.

The florists have a trade jargon of their own. When a man who grows flowers for a living rattles off something like "paper whites, valleys and Romans" the confused layman has to stop to think what the jumble of words means. It is only the trade way of saying paper white narcissus, lily of the valley and Roman hyacinth. Likewise "mum" is their word for chrysanthemum, and time and space are likewise saved by saying "cyp" instead of cypripedium. So Bridesmaid roses are "maids," American Beauties are "beauties," Perle du Jardin becomes "perle" and is pronounced pearl, while Souvenir du President Carnot is reduced to its last word, just as those other illustrious French rose names, General Jacqueminot and Marechal Niel, where shortened to "Jack" and "Niel" in the heyday of their glory. — New York Press.

A Locomotive's Breathing.

The "breathing" of a locomotive—that is to say, the number of puffs given during a journey—depends upon the circumstances of its driving wheels and their speed. No matter what the rate of speed may be, for every one round of the driving wheels a locomotive will give four puffs—two out of each cylinder, the cylinders being double. If the average circumference of the driving wheel is twenty feet and the speed per hour fifty miles, a locomotive will give, going at express speed, 850 puffs per minute, 52,800 puffs per hour and 1,055 puffs per mile.—London Standard.

Suitable Game.

Uncle Jack came to visit the family just after Johnny had recovered from an attack of the whooping cough.

"How did you amuse yourself while you had it?" he asked.

"Me and another boy who had it played Indians and gave warwhoops," answered the little fellow.—Chicago News.

Plenty in Reserve.

A man who had been fighting got two black eyes. Next morning he met a friend, who exclaimed:

"Why, Jack, where have you been? You've got two black eyes!"

"That's nothing," he replied. "I could have got plenty more, only I had no place to put them."

Pleasant.

Strange Guest—I don't know half the people in the room. Just look at that woman over there—the cross eyed, red headed one. And some one told me she was married. Don't you think the fellow was a fool? Other Guest (meekly)—I know he was. I'm him.—Baltimore American.

Talked Too Much.

Wife (reproachfully) — You forget how you once breathed your love in my ear and promised that my every wish should be gratified. Hub—No, I don't, but I wish now I'd followed the hygienic rule of keeping my mouth shut while breathing.—Boston Transcript.

Billiards.

"Have you heard the billiard conundrum? Well, here it is:

"'What made the red ball blush?'

"'Why, when it saw the two whites kiss in the corner.'"

Consistency.

Murilla—Do you consider engagements binding? Millicent—Certainly. If one didn't there would be no fun in breaking them.—Illustrated Bits.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

VIII.—The Country Girl's Career.

By C. V. GREGORY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

OUR most appreciated blessings are seldom the ones that are closest at hand. Just as the country bred boy sometimes gets an idea that he has a genius too broad to be confined between the boundaries of his father's farm, so the girl who has grown up in the country sometimes gets a longing for a glimpse of the unknown world within the city's walls. The imaginative girl often feels that her talents will be more appreciated in the city than in the little home town. She imagines herself burning with a genius for acting, perhaps, and longs for the glare of the footlights and the plaudits of the crowd, or perhaps it is art in one of its many disguises that is calling her to the artificial life of paved streets and brick walls.

Occasionally it is the lights, the music and the pleasures of a swiftly flowing city life that attract the girl from the country, but not often. The girl who is a true daughter of the country is seldom deceived by the glare of a light whose shadow covers tears and sorrow or the pleasure that is but a mask for pain. We are told that the "glamour" of the city life is the force that draws the country girls to town. Nothing of the sort. There is little glamour about the city for the healthy girl. The first thought of the country girl when she finds herself in the city is "how dirty" or "how awfully crowded." But notwithstanding the dirt and the crowds she often remains. She stays because she is ambitious to have a "career." There is a true hearted farmer boy back home probably who would be glad to take her into partnership. But in the past the girl has seldom been taught to look forward with pride to becoming a farmer's wife or to regard a life on the farm as being a career worthy of her ambition.

This is the natural outcome of the conditions for the quarter of a century when farmers were selling their produce below cost. The lot of the farmer's wife was one of almost unrelenting toil, as was that of the farmer himself. There was little to lighten the monotony of the ceaseless grind of housework. Her horizon was limited by the kitchen walls, and her highest ambition was to keep the boys out of the "best room." It is little wonder that she hoped for something better for her daughters. She saw unfolding in them her own girlhood, and she dreaded to see them spend their lives in the hopeless task of keeping body and soul together as she had done.

Her idea of city life was vague. Most of the city women she saw were well dressed, unwrinkled and seemingly happy. They were living the kind of life she would choose for her daughter. The toil of the wives of the poorer laborers she did not see. One of the main reasons that all through this period the country looked up to the city and the city looked down on the country was that country people saw only the best side of the city and the city people saw only the worst side of the country.

The change that has come about in country life in the past decade and a half is so great as to be almost unbelievable. Many of the country people themselves refuse to believe it. They read the reports of high prices skeptically, and not until the produce is sold and the money in their hands will they really believe their good fortune. Even then they will shake their heads and say that prices will surely go down before they have another crop ready for market. They have so long been content with a small return for their labor and no allowance at all for interest on their money or for the fertility which they are selling away from their land that they can hardly believe that the time has come when the farmer is getting enough for his produce to enable him to put farming on a business basis.

Probably this change has affected no one on the farm more than the women. The country girl has a different idea of a career now. She lives in a modern farm home, or if she doesn't she knows that such homes exist and are well within the range of possibility for her. She has had her longing to see the world satisfied by visits to city friends and relatives. She has seen that all the conveniences of city homes are duplicated in the country. She has admired the spacious lawns and beautiful grounds of some of the best of the city houses, but she has been observant enough to note that such houses belong only to the few. She has gone to the theater with her friends and enjoyed it, but no more than she enjoys the homemade theatricals in her home town or the plays and lectures she has attended in the larger country towns by trolley. She has been surprised to find that her friends in the city do not know their next door neighbor. The excuse that "they are not in our set" has puzzled her democratic little soul. It is different in the country, where every one sympathizes with every one else's sorrows and laughs with all in their joys.

The girl comes back from a trip to the city better satisfied than ever with her country home. Her father may not be worth more than $5,000 or $10,000 or $15,000 measured in money, but his house and grounds are equal in all essential respects to many of the millionaires' residences she saw in the city. Her girl friends in the city were coaxing their father to buy them an automobile so that they could "go somewhere." The country girl and her mother have a horse and buggy that are sacred to their use. The horse is so gentle that he will not even bat his eyelid at an automobile and the buggy so shiny that they are proud to be seen anywhere in it. They can hitch up and go where and when they please. The laundry in the basement has taken away the terrors of wash day. The conveniences in the kitchen have greatly lessened the work of feeding the hungry men folks.

The farm reading table is strewn with the latest magazines, and the girl has a piano or at least an organ. A piano dealer in one of the middle western states recently told me that he sold fifteen pianos to the farmers in one township last year. If the farmer's daughter wants a piano he is going to get it for her. He may have to raise a few more hogs next year to pay for it, but that is easily done.

Taking everything together, any comparisons that the country girl may be able to draw are favorable to the farm. She has been raised in the open air. The pigs and the calves and the chickens are her playmates. The colts will come when she whistles, for who ever heard of a country girl who couldn't whistle? She can name all the trees in the wood lot, and she knows the note of every bird that sings in their branches. Every day is full of sunshine, and she sings for the very joy of living where air is free and room is not bought and sold.

She still longs for a career, but it is a career of a different sort. She wants to live the rest of her life on the farm, and she looks forward to the day when she will go into partnership with some ambitious, resourceful young farmer. To be a successful wife, to help make the most out of the old farm and to do her part to make her community the most progressive in the country—this is the career that appeals to the modern country girl. Schools have been provided to teach her the things she needs to know about her coming business. If she is in one of the most up to date communities, she begins to learn sewing and cooking in the rural school. If not given there, it comes in the high school or the preparatory school or the small college. All of these institutions are providing courses in domestic science. They do not dispute the fact that love is the basis of a successful marriage, but they realize that a good digestion is the basis of a loving disposition.

In awakening the community to the realization of its own duties and its possibilities the influence of the farmer's wife is even greater than that of the farmer himself. It is the women on whom the social life of the country communities must largely depend. The problem of rural life is largely a social one now that conditions have solved the financial problem.

Always Answered.

Children often are highly logical, though not quite in the adult manner. They attain conclusions by those processes of "pure reason" which, being quite unbiased by the opinions of others, sometimes result in startling truths.

Almost everybody, for instance, has heard of the little lad who, listening to the questions of an irreligious friend of the family as to what would happen supposing that one good Christian should pray for an east and another for a west wind at sea, innocently answered that of course there'd be an awful tempest, but not every one has heard of the equally pertinent and naïve solution recently offered by a thoughtful youngster for the ever perplexing problem of "Are prayers answered?"

The child was talking with another, who asked the vexed and puzzling question, explaining at the same time that he didn't believe that prayers were answered, because he never got anything he asked for.

"You don't pray for the right things," answered little Mr. Wiseman. "Of course all prayers are answered, but sometimes the answer is 'Yes' and sometimes it's 'No.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Leaving a Man Helpless.

"That statement made me think," said a veteran newspaper man to the Cincinnati Times-Star, "of the celebrated row between President Cleveland's colored man and Secretary Hoke Smith's colored man. The two were exercising their masters' horses out on a country road and got into a dispute as to what is the best thing in the world. Finally they made a bet of a dollar on it.

"'Well, what is de bes' thing in the world?' asked Cleveland's man.

"'Roas' possum and sweet taters,' said Hoke Smith's moke.

"'Whoa!' says Cleveland's man, dragging at the bridle. He jumped to the ground, seized Hoke Smith's man by the leg and dragged him to the dust.

"'Take that,' says he, lamming him on the neck, 'you miserable black rascal! You ain't leave me nuffin' to guess at!'"

An irritable man lies like a hedgehog rolled up the wrong way, tormenting himself with his own prickles.—E. P. Hood.

W. C. T. U. Wants Anti-Smoking Ordinance — Consolidated Water Co. Gets a Jolt

After a long session with the library trustees in reference to a Carnegie library, the board was called to order at 8:15. The order of business was suspended in order that Mrs. Harriet Gaylord and other members of the W. C. T. U. might present a petition begging the trustees to pass an ordinance prohibiting the smoking of tobacco on the street cars of the city. The matter was referred to the committee of the whole to be taken up some time in the future. During the discussion of the question a number of expert opinions were volunteered both by the visitors and members of the board. The city engineer reported that it would not be necessary for him to go to Arizona to see Mr. Bernard, as the matter had been taken up with Mr. Bell of the Pacific Electric and a prompt and satisfactory solution was probable. The city engineer in his capacity of street superintendent reported that he thought that Fourth street could be repaired for $350.00, a comparatively small amount to expend for repairs on a street five years old.

Some other streets, particularly Glendale avenue, Louise and Brand boulevard, would require more than this amount. The street superintendent was requested to confer with the city attorney and make a definite report as to the ways and means. The resignation of Mrs. Lillian S. Wells as a member of the library board was read and upon understanding that the lady had stated positively that she could not fill the position longer, the same was accepted. Ordinance number 131 fixing electric light and power rates, was read third time and passed. Mr. Lane brought to the attention of the board the notice sent out by the Consolidated Water Co. to consumers in Glendale requiring them to make payment at the Los Angeles office of that company only and fixing a penalty of two dollars for violation of that rule. As suggested by the city attorney the city clerk was instructed to notify the Consolidated Water Co. that this rule is very objectionable and unless a place for the payment of water dues is not established in Glendale, the board of trustees will proceed immediately to fix the water rates to be charged by said company and compel it to adopt reasonable regulations. The city clerk reported that some taxes are delinquent on lots belonging to the high school district and that he had been unable to get the trustees to take action in regard to the same. Referred to the city attorney. The same action was taken in regard to complaint of the city marshal that certain water companies doing business in the city had failed to pay licenses as required by ordinance.

The street superintendent was instructed to see that the railroad company occupying Glendale avenue proceed at once to comply with the terms of its franchise in regard to putting the street occupied by its tracks in proper condition.

VALLEY PICNIC.

The annual valley picnic held by the Old Settlers' Association takes place at Verdugo Park Saturday next. This event has hitherto been held at Echo Park, but now that the railroad makes the home picnic grounds accessable, the change will be generally welcomed by near-by residents while the out of town visitors will no doubt glad to visit this attractive resort. It is to be a basket luncheon affair, with coffee furnished free. There may be some informal speeches and music, and all will have an opportunity to see the ball game, but the affair will be purely a neighborly lunch party to which everybody is invited.

The return of Miss Anna McIntyre to her home on Isabelle street terminated a most pleasant trip, during which time she attended the N. E. A. in Boston, and visited Concord and Lexington, where "the shot heard 'round the world" was fired, besides many other scenes of historic interest.

Some time was spent in Maine and in New Brunswick at the home of Mrs. Flewelling, who spent some time in Glendale a year ago where she made many friends.

On her return Miss McIntyre stopped in Wisconsin where she spent a number of days visiting at various places.

A most enjoyable musical party was given the piano pupils of Miss Octavia Hudson, at her studio in West Glendale, Wednesday afternoon. The event closed a very successful summer course of study and was participated in by twelve children.

"The Story Hour" was followed by musical connundrums, after which a contest was entered into by the whole class and visiting children. The contest consisted of a musical program by the pupils illustrated by tableaux. The tableau was first presented, the children writing the subject, if possible, on cards provided for that purpose. The selection illustrated was then played by a pupil, Miss Hudson prefacing each number with an interesting explanation or story.

At the close of the contest prizes were awarded to those having the greatest number of correct answers. Some merry games to music were played and refreshments served. The pupils will enjoy these musical events at the close of each half term during the coming year, which begins Sept. 12.

A HEART AFFAIR.

In compliment to Miss Laura Pirtle and Mr. Ernest Owen, whose engagement was happily terminated on the fourteenth, the Maids and Matrons entertained at the home of the Country Club on Monday evening.

Guests were received at the door and ushered into a vista of pink and green. Garlands of asparagus plumosis fluttering with pink and white hearts formed a lattice work over the heads of the dancers and festooned the walls, while streamers of pink and white ribbon and a bank of pink Cochet roses over the fire place completed the color scheme.

The picture was made more perfect by the presence of many handsome gowns which attested the opening of the season. Miss Pirtle, the honor guest, was charming in white lace over white satin. Mrs. V. Price Brown in dark green and a touch of pink, Mrs. R. A. Petersen in stunning black and white, Mrs. Daniel Campbell in Irish crochet and linen over pale green, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam in Copenhagen blue, Mrs. Menzo Williams in a hand-embroidered princess, Mrs. Chas. Shattuck in imported lace, and Mrs. L. C. Brand in coat and gown of Irish crochet were among those who added to the general effect.

During intermission heart refreshments in pink and white were served to the guests while they enjoyed a speech by Mr. Owen entitled, "How it all happened," which was followed by a pathetic ballad, "Oh, how did it happen," sung by six anxious maidens displaying black-bordered handkerchiefs.

Mrs. V. Price Brown, presiding officer of the Maids and Matrons, was delightful as hostess, and Mrs. Menzo Williams, Mrs. Daniel Campbell and Mrs. Charles Shattuck comprised the receiving line.

To Mrs. Eleanor and Miss May Richards, Miss Emma Williams and Miss Clara and Miss Bertha Petersen is due the credit of the artistic decorations.

They returned to this place Sunday morning and are now residing here preparatory to the erecting of a home by the groom, which will be done immediately. The trip to Yuma was evidently taken merely as a lark by the young people as it is known that the parents of both parties were favorable to the match and can give no other reason for the elopement. BANK OF TROPICO.

An old landmark, simply an old rambling barn that has stood the last two decades at the intersection of Central avenue and San Fernando road, was removed recently to another part of Tropico, and a handsome two-story brick building takes its place. The Bank of Tropico, capitalized for $25,000, occupies the entire first floor of this handsome new business block. The three sides being of plate glass and two massive oak doors. The interior of the bank building is finished in marble which harmonizes with the highly polished mahogany finishings. The floors are of mosaic tiling and of an artistic coloring that blends with the marble and mahogany finishings. Monday morning at nine o'clock the doors of the bank were opened to the public. A number of depositors were present but to Andy Stephenson is given the credit of being the first depositor; while Everett Richardson, the ten-year-old son of B. W. Richardson, one of the bank directors, made the first certificate of deposit. The offices and directors of the bank are Dan Campbell, president; Norton C. Wells, vice president; John A. WEST GLENDALE

Ross B. Boyd is the possessor of a fine new auto and is seen most every evening spinning around our streets accompanied by his wife and little daughter Bernardine.

The West Glendale school opened Monday morning with an attendance of 190 pupils, and very bright prospects of the 200 mark being reached before the end of the week. A number of visitors were present also.

Mrs. Mosholder of Ivy street, has returned from San Diego, where she was called some time ago on account of the serious illness of her sister. She brought with her her little daughter who has been spending the summer with her grandmother.

The friends of Mrs. Miner, 1442 Ivy street, will be glad to hear that she is expected home in a week or two. Mrs. Miner has been making an extended visit to her old home in Muskegon, Mich., and has also been visiting her son who was married recently in Chicago.

Little Keith Tatlow of Oak street, who has been confined to his bed for such a long period, has so far improved as to be able to be propped in a chair for several hours each day. Although he is unable to support himself his condition is very encouraging to his parents and friends.

DIME AND A HALF SOCIAL.

The social given at the West Glendale Methodist church on Tuesday evening was certainly a success, both socially and financially. The church was crowded to the limit, and a very pleasing program, consisting of music, recitations, etc., was given. Mr. Durham gave a very amusing reading, as did many others. The songs rendered by some of the ladies were very good and caused no end of amusement to both old and young. Generous plates of ice cream and cake were served to every one. The evening entertainment cost only 15c. The sum of $21.60 was realized; about $14.25 being clear gain and will be given to the fund for the erection of the new building which will be started at once.

E. Larkey; treasurer, G. C. Gillellen. Committees were also appointed as follows: Roads and General Improvement—Messrs. Oliver, Mitchell, Kranz, Cooper and Walton: Annexation—Oliver, Mitchell, Croswell, J. Kranz, Blue, Cooper, Penfield, Wyvell, Peterson and J. J. Wilson: Publication—R. J. Willson, Mesdames Larkey and Croswell.

The many determined speakers voiced the expressed desire of the association that they be placed on record as being diametrically opposed to annexation to Glendale. The residents of Casa Verdugo feel that they are fully as interested and competent to install improvements about their homes as are the officers and residents of Glendale, a mile and a half away. They believe that annexation to this little city will only undo the improvements already made but greatly deter those already in contemplation. The committee on annexation immediately went into session and at once planned vigorous measures to combat the annexation of their territory to Glendale.

It is the mind of this organization that should those who are agitating the annexation of this section continue to persist in the matter, they will have a warm fight on their hands, in which they will be met at every step by determined resistance. The personnel of the officers and committees give evidence that thorough and efficient work will be done by the Casa Verdugo Improvement Association. That the ladies were ably assisted was again proven by the refreshing lunch served at the Casa by Mrs. Sowl and the Misses Williams and Peterson. For her loyalty and hospitality to her neighbors Mrs. Sowl received a most cordial vote of thanks from the association. Another meeting will be held on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Casa.
